It will be a grand affair.

Ed Schicketanz has moved his barber shop into the brick building on Main street only one door south of his old stand, and has fitted the new shop up very attractively and conveniently. The old building just vacated by him is to be moved off to make room for a new brick building, which will be occupied by Odell & Bryant as a hardware store.

The German Catholic fair which opens in the Temple hall next Monday evening promises to be a great success. There has been much energy shown in the work of preparation, and with the numerous attractions in "the week's programme the receipts should be so large as to give substantial help to this church in its commendable work.

Rook, when he heard the verdict of the jury acquitting him of the charge of murder, was almost wild with delight, and fairly jumped to the jury and grasped hands with each of the twelve, thanking each person-ally. Then he turned and shook hands with ally. Then he turned and shook hands with Judge Carson. Grabbing his hat, he started out, saying: "I'll go now and see the old woman." The scene was one which almost broke the dignity of the court, but the man was hardly to be blamed for allowing his enthusiasm to get away with his judgment.

It seems as if the energies of the wide-awake citizens could be concentrated on some one of the numerous projects now being some one of the numerous projects now being talked up, improvements could be secured more surely and certainly. The motor line can be got started very quickly, as all that is now lacking is the removal of the obstruc-tions put in its way by the Chicago & Rock Island company. As soon as that is settled, there should be a centering of energies on the union depot project, and that should be crowded to a success, as all it needs is a little pushing. The hotel could quickly follow, and with these three things secured this season numerous other enterprises would follow right along. At present the force of public spirited citizens seems greatly divided, and they weaken their energies.

The Ogden House Leased For Five Years.

DOINGS IN UNCLE SAM'S COURT.

An Iowa Boy Sues His Father For a Promised Farm-Chief Templeton Will Stay-Playing Crazy.

The Ogden Leased. The opening of the Ogden house is now an assured fact, and the date is fixed as the first of May. Messrs. Stout & Dooley, the proprietors, have just perfected a five year's lease of the building to Mr. S. E. Hunt, of the Southern hotel of St. Louis, and Mr. A. B. Davenport, of the Millard, of Omaha. Both these gentlemen have had extensive ex-perience in the hotel business, and are experience in the hotel business, and are exactly the men for the place. Mr. Dooley informed a BEE reporter yesterday morning that several important changes would be made in the house, that it would be fitted up in strictly first class shape, and conducted as a number one hotel in every respect. A large passenger elevator is to be put in, the office, washroom and corridors laid with marble tiles, the kitchen thoroughly overhauled and furnished with a new range, and such other changes as may be marble tiles, the kitchen thorougily overhauled and furnished with a new range, and such other changes as may be necessary for the comfort and convenience of guests. The proposed improvements will probably cost nearly $10,000. Said Mr. Dooley: "The reason why we have not made a lease, and had the house opened before is mostly on account of the scheme being worked by the board of trade to build a new palace hotel. Several parties came here to lease our house, but on learning of the proposed plan would say that they could not afford to take it as they would be knocked out completely if the new building was put up. Furthermore, we were not particularly anxious to lease to any of these parties, as it would have been more or less of an experiment, and we wanted men who would surely make a success of it, and in this we have succeeded. In fact these same gentlemen were at first opposed to it, but on carefully looking over the ground, they decided that here was a splendid opening, and made up their minds that if this house was refitted and properly conducted no new hotel would be built. The lessees are widely known and have made an enviable reputation as wide-awake and successful hotel men. When the wordered changers are are widely known and have made an envia-ble reputation as wide-awake and successful hotel men. When the projected changes are completed, the house will present quite a dif-ferent internal appearance. The marble work is to be done by the Pickle Marble company, of St. Louis. This firm is now at work putting in the marble at the govern-ment building, and their men, will suspend work putting in the marble at the govern-ment building, and their men will suspend work there about the first of next week in order to fix up here. The contract for the elevator is not yet let, but Omaha and St. Louis parties are now figuring on it, It will be placed in the office by the side of the dining room door. We are highly pleased in securing such prominent

If fitted up and furnished as it should be, the Ogden is amply commodious to accommodate the traveling public and such regular boarders as would have patronized a new hotel.

The proposed opening is very welcome to the citizens of Council Bluffs, and is hoped will prove a grand success.

A White Lead Factory. For some time past Mr. R. T. Bryant has been in correspondence with a prominent chemist in the east, who has discovered a new method of manufacturing white lead from pig. The advantages secured in his discovery are these: By the old method of corrosion from three to six months' time is required to reduce it and get it ready for use. One hundred pounds of pig will produce about one hundred and nineteen pounds of white lead. The silver which the lead contains, though small in quantity, is lost on ac-count of the expense incidental to its separation. The silver averages about $2 to the ton of lead, which, while not figured in the estimated profits, would amount to considerable in the aggregate. By this new process but three days' time is required in the manufac-ture. On account of the existence of a certure. On account of the existence of a certain element in the crude lead a long time is required to overcome by corroding, but this element is entirely overcome in the new method, hence the difference in the time required by the two processes.

method, hence the difference in the time required by the two processes.

Mr. Bryant is in possession of samples of lead produced by both methods. By corrosion both English and American leads show great discoloration when subjected to the sewer gas test, the American being nearly brown. While the other, produced by the recent methods, is perfectly white, although subjected to the same test.

Those who have the matter of developing the new discovery are desirous of starting ten factories, at well located points in this country. This place has been selected as one of the ten, and without doubt a factory will be located in either Council Bluffs or Omaha. That an investment in this enterprise would pay there is scarcely room for question, as the following figures will show: A plant capable of handling ten tons per day will cost $20,000, and the net profit will be 40 per cent. The plan on foot is to organize a stock cent. The plan on foot is to organize a stock company which shall have sufficient financial backing to carry the enterprise to what can-not help but be an assured success.

Lot 10, block 7, Bayliss' first addition, with good house, will be offered cheap for the next ten days by S. B. Wads-worth & Co., 236 Main st. It is a bargain for any one.

Two young men on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train yesterday had a funny rivalry over the companionship of a petite actress, who chanced to be on the train. One of the masculine twain was a young Omaha broker, the other was bound for Council Bluffs. The Bluffs young man was quick to notice that the Omaha fellow was moving toward the winning side, in bissful ignorance that there was any rival near at hand. The young man bound for the Bluffs managed to get the Omaha masher into conversation, and inno-

Omaha masher into conversation, and inno-cently remarked to him:

"Isn't it a pity about that girl there?"

"Why, what's the matter?"

"Matter? Why, she's stark crazy. You ought to have seen her down the road aways. She was wild, and I thought she was going to break every window in the car. She's got quieted down now, and seems all right, and her friends, who sit right behind her, hope to get her through to the asylum with-out any further trouble."

The Omaha broker had a far-away look in his eye as he sauntered off into the smoking car to calm his nerves with nicotine. He had not a doubt concerning the girl's insanity, and was congratulating himself on his narrow escape from a scene, until in changing at Pacific Junction he noticed the other young man sitting beside the fair one, chatting as happily as one could wish. They saw him, and waved their hands tantalizingly as his train moved off.

The Federal Courts. In Judge Shiras' court there was an equity case of Mason vs Mason, which has peculiar features. It is a suit of son against father. The plaintiff claims that his father, who lives in Pennsylvania, came out here and bargained for a farm in Ringgold county for $2,000, which he was to give to his son. He paid $200 on the place, and on returning home sent his son $1,800 of which $1,300 was paid sont his son $1,800 of which $1,300 was paid on the farm and the other $500 used to stock it, with the understanding that the young man should use this amount later in paying off a $500 mortgage on the farm. The old gentleman was to keep the place in his name until it was cleared by the young man and then deed it to him as a gift. The young man went, shead with improvements, naid the went ahead with improvements, paid the interest on the mortgage, and handled the property as his own. In two or three the property as his own. In two or three years he began to urge the father to deed him the farm, but the old gentleman after some delays utterly refused. Then this suit was brought. The mortgage now has been foreclosed and forty acres sold off to satisfy that. The case of Steele ayainst Ettinger was being tried before Judge Love yesterday in the south court room of the court house.

"Some of them say there will be." "Some of them say a good deal, and what is more, some of them don't know anything about it. You don't hear any aldermen say so. It seems to me the council ought to be entitled to credit for some sense at least, and entitled to credit for some sense at least, and they surely wouldn't exhibit any in making a change. In this case it would be folly to appoint a new man simply because there is a change in the administration, when his work is entirely above criticism. No, sir, most assuredly there will be no change in that office?

Death of a Tattooed Tramp. Vall., Ia., March 28.—[Special to the Bes.]

In the afternoon of Monday last, a tramp, in endeavoring to board a freight car in a train leaving this town, missed his footing and fell between the cars between the rails. Some eight or nine cars passed over him rolling him along, until the train was quickly brought to a stand. It was then found the poor fellow was sadly mutilated. Medical aid was at hands and every effort made to relieve the sufferer. During the attendance of the doctors the man stated his name was Fred Brooks; that his father was W. C. Brooks, living on Virginia avenue, Omaha; that there was no number to the house; that it was no use writing to his friends. About three hours after the accident the man died. The case was duly investigated by Coroner Dr. Graham, of Denison, Ia., and I have thought it best to advise you of the particulars of the case, as some one in or about Omaha may recognize him by the description following, and possibly inform any relatives or acquaintances of the deceased, whose remains were this day interred in the potter's field of Vall cemetery. The man was about five feet eight inches tall, light complexion, gray eyes, light hair, close cut, clean shaven face, weight about one hundred and forty pounds, twenty-three years of age, three fingers of left Brooks, living on Virginia avenue, Omaha;

twenty-three years of age, three fingers of left hand gone; said they were taken off on the Rock Island railroad about six or eight weeks Rock Island railroad about six or eight weeks back; wore black stiff hat, dark clothes, cutaway coat, good red underclothing, in fact respectfully dressed and nice looking; elastic side boots, and light stockings.
